

Jean Vanier Emerging Scholar Lecture
Summer Institute on Theology and Disability 2017
June 5-8, Azusa, California
Call for Nominations

In 2016, The Summer Institute of Theology and Disability inaugurated a new annual lecture series named the Jean Vanier Emerging Scholar Lecture. As the patron of this lecture, Jean Vanier does not need an introduction for anyone who is familiar with the field of theology and disability. Not only has he been awarded the Templeton Prize 2015 for his life and work as the founder and leader of L'Arche, he also exemplifies the aspiration of the SITD to combine reflection upon the lives of persons with disabilities and their families with actual engagement in such lives. Vanier demonstrates the truth of studying and thinking about disability as a second order undertaking. In his case: L'Arche has to be lived before it can be the subject matter of reflection.

Since SITD was started in 2010, we have seen the emergence of new scholars entering the field with their PhD thesis and/or other publications. By establishing an annual plenary lecture of 50 minutes, the Summer Institute seeks to honor this development by providing an opportunity for one of these emerging scholars each year to present themselves to a wider audience. Potential candidates are asked to do this with an original lecture that may build upon, but does not repeat (part) of their thesis.

Candidates for the 2017 Jean Vanier Emerging Scholar lecture must meet the following criteria:

- Anyone with an academic degree obtained after January 1, 2012 in theology, divinity, religious studies or disability studies that meets the second criterion.
- The subject matter of their PhD thesis is disability in relation to spirituality, faith or religion.

Names of possible candidates can be brought to the attention of the SITD Faculty. Applicants submit a copy of the thesis on which their application is based to the Faculty, together with two letters of recommendation from independent referees (being persons who have not been part of the supervision of their thesis). A candidate may self-nominate as long as the letters of recommendation come with the application. The candidate chosen will speak at one of the plenary sessions and have their expenses paid for the Summer Institute. The lecture will be considered for publication in the Journal of Disability and Religion.

Process

1. Send nomination and letters of reference to Hans Reinders j.s.reinders@vu.nl and Bill Gaventa, bill.gaventa@gmail.com. The deadline for submission is January 1, 2017.

Faculty

Erik Carter, PhD
*The Kennedy Center,
Vanderbilt University, Nashville*

Bill Gaventa, MDiv
Director

Thomas Reynolds, PhD
*Emmanuel College,
University of Toronto*

Hans Reinders, PhD
*Faculty of Theology,
VU University, Amsterdam*

Darla Schumm, PhD
Hollins College

John Swinton, PhD
University of Aberdeen

Julia Watts-Belser, PhD
Georgetown University

Amos Yong, PhD
Fuller Seminary

Administrative Team

Bill Gaventa, MDiv
Director

Neil Cudney, DMin
Christian Horizons, Canada

Mark Crenshaw, MTS
*Center for Leadership in Disability
Georgia State University, Atlanta*

David Morstad, MEd, FAAIID
Administrative Adviser

Mailing Address: Bill Gaventa, 304 Hidden Oaks Circle, Woodway, Texas USA 76712

Email: bill.gaventa@gmail.com Phone: 732-718-5875

Website: bethesda.institute.org/theology

Facebook: www.facebook.com/theologydisability

Twitter: @TheologyDis